RESEARCH PROMOTION POLICY

Research Promotion Policy has been developed to align with ISBM University's vision of becoming a premier academic institution. The R&D vision focuses on achieving recognition among leading private universities for solving societal and technological challenges through research, innovation, and impactful learning.

Economic shifts and societal transformations are increasingly driven by innovative applications and interdisciplinary approaches rather than traditional discovery alone. ISBM University is dedicated to creating a research ecosystem that promotes critical thinking at every stage—inspiration, ideation, and implementation—while providing unique solutions to real-world challenges. Research across disciplines such as Basic Sciences, Information Technology, Arts and Humanities, Commerce and Management, Law, Pharmacy, and Library Science plays a vital role in fostering societal benefits and sustainable progress.

The University's research and development initiatives aim to generate transformative knowledge, establish cutting-edge facilities, publish high-quality research outputs, develop patents, and strengthen national and international collaborations. Through these efforts, ISBM University aspires to build a vibrant, multidisciplinary research community dedicated to addressing global and local challenges.

1. Purpose

The purpose of this updated policy is to strengthen the research ecosystem at ISBM University by encouraging high-quality research, innovation, and collaboration. The policy reflects the institution's growing emphasis on addressing societal challenges and advancing sustainable solutions.

2. Scope

The updated policy applies to all academic departments and researchers at ISBM University, including faculty, staff, students, and IRF-funded PhD scholars, ensuring equitable access to resources and opportunities.

3. Objectives

- To cultivate a supportive and innovative research culture through enhanced frameworks and guidelines.
- To provide robust funding systems, including the continuation of the IRF program, to support PhD scholars in achieving their research goals.
- To expand research outputs by prioritizing publications in Scopus/Web of Science-indexed journals and patents with commercialization potential.
- To foster research that is environmentally sustainable, socially relevant, and aligned with global development goals.
- To strengthen national and international collaborations and engage with industries for research partnerships.

4. Custodian of Policy

The Dean (Research & Development) will oversee the implementation and updates of the Research Policy for the 2020-21 session. The Research Advisory Committee, led by the Vice Chancellor, will guide strategic priorities, including the management of the IRF program and other research initiatives.

5. Policy and Guidelines

5.1 Undertaking Research

Faculty, researchers, and students are expected to engage in:

- Publishing in high-impact journals or presenting at recognized national and international conferences.
- Developing patentable innovations with societal or commercial applications.
- Contributing to community knowledge through articles and public discourse.

The IRF program will continue to support PhD scholars by:

- Providing monthly stipends, conference grants, and publication support.
- Promoting research aligned with ISBM University's strategic focus areas.
- Conducting annual performance reviews to ensure research progress.

5.2 Obligations of Faculty and Researchers

Faculty and researchers must demonstrate measurable research outputs, including publications, patents, and externally funded projects. IRF scholars are expected to align their research with university goals and contribute to the research community.

5.3 Recruitment of Faculty and Researchers

The recruitment process for faculty and researchers will prioritize candidates with:

- A proven track record of impactful research and innovation.
- Experience in securing grants, patents, or consultancy projects.
- The ability to mentor IRF-funded scholars effectively.

5.4 Research Advisory Committee

The Research Advisory Committee, chaired by the Vice Chancellor and coordinated by the Dean (Research & Development), will:

- Oversee the execution of the IRF program.
- Regularly evaluate research progress and provide strategic direction.
- Update the Research and Innovation Agenda based on emerging priorities.

Discussion

1. Introduction and Overview of the Research Promotion Policy

The policy's objectives, including fostering a research-driven culture and the introduction of the Institutional Research Fellowship (IRF), were presented and unanimously appreciated.

2. Discussing Funding Mechanisms and Seed Grants for Researchers

The committee agreed to provide seed grants for innovative research projects and detailed the structure of the IRF, offering stipends and research support for deserving PhD scholars.

3. Identifying Focus Areas for Innovation and Interdisciplinary Research

Focus areas such as sustainability, emerging technologies, and societal impact research were identified, with the expectation that IRF scholars will align their work with these priorities.

4. Planning Research Capacity-Building Workshops for Faculty, Students, and PhD Scholars

Plans to conduct workshops on research methodologies, academic writing, and intellectual property management were approved, with special sessions designed for IRF-funded PhD scholars.
